Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

				I feel that my alma mater has been deprived of this privilege since a long time. Given that the Central Government has only recognised a few top institutes in the entire country, it is certain that if we do not take this opportunity, someone else will certainly take it. B.E.College has tremendous potential and is well placed to take this stride. We do admit that an institute grows based on the available resources. Being a IIT institute, it will be eligible for huge grants which will give it a boost in developing itself and reaching better standards. West Bengal is the only state in the country which will have the privilege of having the most number of IITs in the country. U.P. has 2 IITs. For once, let us come out of all our prejudices and be together and try to make our state the best state in the country. Having the most no. of IITs will certainly bring the talent pool to our state. (I Belong to West Bengal).Having the talen pool back there, any companies can open there and thus revenue of the state grows.

311	Prabal Kanti Choudhury	Director, SMAFS Inc. Toronto and Faculty Member York College of Industry and Technology Toronto	Ontario Canada	BESU deserves upgradation to IIT for its excellent contribution to the development of West Bengal, India and the World as a whole
312	Subhojit Roy	Alumnus, 1993	Maharashtra, India	Chief Minister Buddhadev Bhattacharyya has earned a lot of respect in the recent past for his tremendous contributions to uplift the economy of West Bengal. Kudos to him! Converting Shibpur to an IIT would be another step in the right direction. It will not only enhance the reputation of an institution that is already prestigious, this move will help the state become more prominent as an investment destination. It is well known that IITs are well known all over the world as a premier institute. Shibpur deserves the respect and glory associated with an IIT. I am certain that the hon'ble chief minister will not let this great opportunity slip by. As an alumnus, I would appeal to him to take this as a priority.

347	Santanu Roy	1999 Graduate (Architecture)	Florida, USA	BEC/ BESUS has the potential of transitioning into a cutting-edge global institution. However, the process involves judicious policy decisions and patronage of the stakeholders.
348	Biswarup Guha	1999, B.E. Civil, Currently working as environmental engineer in USA	NJ, USA	Conversion of BEC to IIT would definitely a boon for West Bengal. Despite being the second oldest engineering college in India, BEC is not considered as good as it was before. This conversion will help BEC to regain it's position in the industry and perhaps attract more investors to West Bengal. It is a simple equation. The better the schools are, the better the products (students), more is the scope of industrial ventures and research, which means a better industrial ambiance. More industries means less unemployments, more revenue,a prosperous state. Everybody would agree that industry in West Bengal has slumped during the time respected Jyoti Basu was in power, although our current chief minister is trying to revive the past glory. An IIT will make the ride towards reviving its glory smoother.

361	Prof. Sankar K. Sen	Graduate from BECOLLEGE (now BESU) in 1948; Served as a GOI-research fellow for 2 years, as a Faculty of BEC for about 31 years	West Bengal, India	The under-graduate teaching in the Bengal Engineering College was comparable to that of any engineering institution in the world; the only lacuna was and still is post-graduate education and research. It must be appreciated that without sound post-graduate education and research, undergraduate education and teaching is bound to suffer how hard the teachers try to keep it up. During the last thirty years or so, with the advent of computers, robotics, optical fiber communication, bio-informatics, nano-science and technology etc., the barrier between various disciplines have broken altogether, newer tools in information and management science have changed the global scenario and the requirement of engineers with innovative mind is the order of the day. Whereas, the IITs have been able to continuously keep pace with the change because of massive financial support of the Central Government, BECOLLEGE (& BESU) remained static and its product is turning into mediocrity. The opportunity has arrived at its doorstep

488	Dr Ashok Banerji	Professor in eLearning, Jones International University (the first professor from India teaching online from Kolkata)	Kolkata	I am BEC 1972 alumni. After working in in UK, Singapore and USA I returned to Calcutta. I came back with a high hope. However, the academic condition here is appalling that I am ashamed that to mention that I was from this state and more so from BE College. I am now a Professor in eLearning at Jones International University (www.jonesinternational.edu) offering courses to students all over the world from my home in Calcutta. Without boasting I can say that I am the only virtual Professor form India at the University. I will love to see BE College and the state in which I gained my foundation knowledge gain back its premier status.
489	Sourav Pal	Graduate Student	Texas, USA
490	Dr. Jyotsna Dutta Majumdar	Alumnus	West Bengal, India	I am proud to say that I am an alumnus of this College and always feel that it's standard of education is equivalent to any premier Institution of the first world. However, the upgradation would provide more opportunity and open a wide scope of research to the faculty members and students which the college deserves. Furthermore, it would also help our Institution and us to reach to the people of the world. It's a gain to our state only. Hon'ble Chief Minister should try his best and join hand with us to achieve the title for the benefit of all of us.

Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

				Bengal Engineering College, abbreviated as B.E.College, used to be one of the top five engineering schools in India. Now, both its reputation and educational standard have dropped relative to many other Indian Universities, primarily, IITs and IISc, Bangalore. Its conversion to IIT, Shibpur will be immensely beneficial for regaining its status and standard for the following reasons: (i) re-establishing its educational standard by attracting excellent faculty and students; (ii) being recognized as a top class institution outside India; and (iii) attracting both national and foreign research grants for both faculty and graduate students. I applaud perseverance and dedication of our alumni for initiating this conversion. I plea to the Government of West Bengal to expedite this issue. This will very likely free some of the financial resources of Westbenal Government to improve Regional Engineering Colleges such as REC, Durgapur.

604	Santanu Bagchi	Civil '96, Sr. Software Engineer, MBA (Babson M'07)	Boston, MA - USA	The quality of engineers, emerging from a technology institute, is only as good as the quality of knowledge disseminating from it. As an alumni, competing with alumnus of other colleges in the professional space, I have seen the IIT-ians have had a distinct edge over the others initially by virtue of the project-centric analytical learning. While concepts and theories are taught in class, meaningful knowledge is retained only through projects that mimic the real-world scenario. Currently, BESUS lacks this capability for 2 reasons: (a) Financial constraints to fund these projects driven by state-of-art latest technology (b) Need redefinition of the academic vision and mission, and time-bound actionable steps to implement the new strategy. By assigning BESUS an IIT status, we can overcome the hurdle in (a) and also achieve the objectives of (b). This will truly add a jewel to the crown of Kolkata and embolden the Chief Minister's initiatives to attract knowledge and capital investments in the state.

				BE College should be upgraded to an IIT. West Bengal Govt should pave the way for its upgradation. As the Chief Minister himself is talking about new industrial revolution, a premier Institute like IIT will become handy for the state. Traditionally, premier educational institutes play an important role for industrialization (a fine example is Boston). There is no reason why BE College, the state of West Bengal and the whole of Eastern India should not have that. We have played enough politics, destroyed many premier institutes like Presidency College, Calcutta University in last many decades; lets build some thing which will be remembered by the future generation and be useful for the region. If our esteemed Chief Minister is thinking about Govt loosing its control of 500 odd seats for the state in BE College, we should remember we already have some 20,000 seats in some 50 odd new colleges which came up recently. They will fill the vaccum. Lets just do it. Thanks

				Why should our alma mater expect anything short of brilliance?. For decades this institution has groomed and polished young boys into men who have gone on to represent its institution proudly, except for a few external factors who dare treat such a hallowed institution as a politicians playground (no offense to the Chief Minister). I urge all and sundry for whom this institution has served as a shelter of some sort to put thier working hats on, and do everything in thier reach to earn back this institutions rightful place amongst the best in our nation and mother earth.

West Bengal, India	As a student now it will be very foolish of me if i say i dont want my university to be an IIT. Actually every single student in this university wants this status for our college and i believe state government , specially our chief ministre will see to it sincerely. Because its going to be an important step to uplift the technological arena of our state. Lastly i would like to thank every single person who are working hard make our dream true. Together we can do it. "Cause we are BEINGS.

Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

				I guess it is time now for BEC to get its due credit. This will be the last chance to improve the situation of this one-time premier & prestigious institute. If we miss this opportunity to convert it into an IIT, I think slowly BEC will be a dead institute (one among those many unnamed engineering colleges who nobody knows about). I am delighted to see that BEC has been selected as the third best institute for upgradation to IIT. And it will really be a sad event if State Govt. does not provide full support to this upgradation program just to protect any narrow interest of any particular group / community/ political party. I keep hearing news that in India now things are changing and Govt & political parties are aggressively promoting change and positive development. So I have a strong hope that the State Govt will agree to convert BESUS to an IIT.

Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

				I strongly support this move to upgrade BESUS to the status of an Institute of National Importance. There was a time, not many years ago, when BE College was considered to be at par with any top UG Engineering College in India, and even abroad. It had a tradition of excellence and academic rigor which was recognised by International Academic Community and Industry at large. Unfortunately, this reputation of the College has got eroded over the last fifteen to twenty years. One way of reviving the name is through high quality research activity and PhD programmes. This calls for infusion of capital to upgrade infrastructure facilities and improving the stature of the faculty- induction of young energetic and high technology savvy people amongst the teachers and researchers. We should also expand our horizon in admission of students, and not limit ourselves to local boys and girls only. The upgradation of the University to an INI status will surely facilitate in these matters.

1967	SUBHAS GANGULY	PhD scholar	W.B..INDIA
1968	Debasis Banerjee	Principal	Victoria, Australia	This opportunity must be taken for further enhancement of the reputation of West Bengal
1969	Nitesh Shaw	alumni	WB, INDIA	BESU has got all the resources that is required for an institute to gain the grade of IIT's. This act will help the institute in building more scholars, technocrats.
1970	Prof N. Roy	Professor M.I.T.	Massachusetts, USA	Every one is not like Newton or Einstein that they can do anything under apple tree or at the petent office.we need instruments and truly speaking money.i knew that bengal government unable to provide it.Sorry to say BESU has less facilities than a polytechnique college in US. Is't it a shame to us that now it is a political issue?We don't want to be looser again.
1971	Avik Mitra	final year student of civil engineering dept.	W.B, INDIA	True Development of Bengal lies in this.So before its late make Bengal proud by giving her 1 more IIT

1987	PRADIP CHANDA	Alumnus	UP India	Upgradation is required
				Bengal Engineering & Science University has been the cradle for the development of all engineering institutions of Eastern India. The original IIT at Khargpur was formed largely with the professors from B.E. College. The Regional Engineering College at Durgapur was born in B.E. College and operated in B.E. College for two years before it moved to Durgapur at its present location. Both Tripura Engineering College and Jalpaiguri Engineering College initially got started at the B.E. College. This is a 150-year old institution (older than Calcutta University) of great influence in the field of engineering education. This institution/university deserves to be honored to the level of a national institute of the stature of an IIT. No other engineering university in the east deserves this honor more than the B.E.S. University. It is about time that this institution is recognized for its contribution to engineering education in India. It is to the interest and honor of West Bengal if it is made into an IIT. Thanks!

2013	Siddhartha Basu	Alumnus	New York, USA
2014	Tapas Chaudhuri	Alumnus 1965	New Jersey, USA	We should get the IIT Status and then go beyond to be the best Engineering College we were. In 1960 we picked B. E. College over IIT, Kharagpur because we believed our College was better than any IIT at that time.
2015	Rudrajit Mitra	Alumni	Virginia, USA

Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

2016	sujarto chakraborty	A bengali	Rio De Janeiro, Brazil	I am surprised to see that you BEC alumniees are making a petition to make BE college an IIT. BE College should have been an IIT in the year 1856. The leaders of India's prime institution is begging for central funds. It is sad to see that you guys putting up a petition to become an elite institution of India. If you guys do not know, let me tell you BECollege was always a leader. Starting from Ullaskar Dutta to todays' leaders of West Bengal (like CPM leader SRIDIP Bhattacharyya or BJP leader Tathagata Roy) came from BE College are from BECollege. My whole family is from BE College. Presidency College and BE College were the brains of India. Shame on you guys that you are begging the the cheap West Bengal prime minister to make it become an IIT. We are way above that folks!!
2017	Dipankar Sengupta	Executive, Sahara	Lucknow, U.P.	It will add a new feather on West Bengal.
2018	Rathin Basu	Alumni	Colorado, USA

Conversion of BESU, Shibpur to an INI

2521	SUBHASH C. GUPTA	ALUMNI, 1967 BE MET, 1970 ME MET.	MASSACHUSETTS, USA.	If BESU receives the designation "INI", it would bring much needed status to this very old institution. There will be fund available to upgrade its facilities, hire highly qualified faculty and staff members and buy modern equipments for its laboratories. I do not see any reason why the government of West Bengal will not try their best to improve an academic facility in their own territory.

2550	Akash mlddya	Business Head at AREVA (French Nuclear Energy group)	U.P.. INDIA	Respected WBCM - you are enabling WB in last few years to a position where India and Industry has started reposing confidence in WB. There isnt a better time to complete the picture of a wholesome forward looking WB by stitching together great Industries with great Engineering Institutes - this is the right time to catapult WB to a power centre of education by going for BESU upliftment to IIT to send the message loud and clear across the country & abroad that WB is taking its business seriously by backward integration of industry to education. Sir - please do it.
